Highlighting a Feature of Amicus Attorney

The New Notes Module in Amicus Attorney V+

Record information instantly with this great new module now available in Amicus Attorney V+!

There is so much information that you must deal with in a day as a legal professional. No matter how organized you are, there are times when the information is flowing in so quickly that you only have time to quickly jot it down and move on to the next task. This is where the Notes module comes in handy.

The Notes module looks just like a legal pad and works like one too. You can record anything in the Notes module – a fact, a phone message, an action item etc.

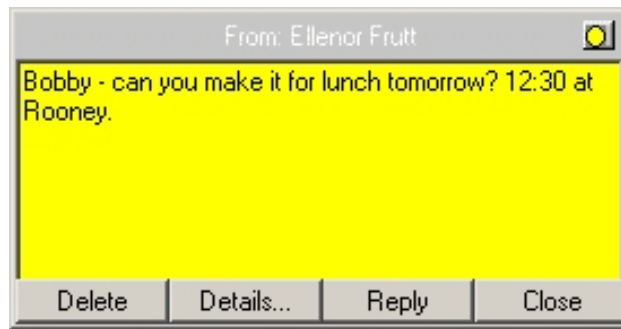

Want to put an item you have jotted down on a file? No problem. At any time, you can take any piece of information from your legal pad and transfer it, effortlessly, to a file. Lists of notes now appear on Files, making them a flexible (and dated) way of recording information.

Information you have jotted down may also have a more specialized purpose. You can convert your notes easily without having to re-type a thing. That hastily jotted down note can become a phone call, phone message, e-mail, time entry, to do or appointment with one click without you having to re-enter it. No re-typing. No transcription errors.

You will instantly eliminate all of the hand written sticky notes that are plastered around your desk when you start using the Notes module.

Send any items on the note pad as a "sticky message" within Amicus Attorney to other users in your firm.

You'll use the Notes module so much, that you'll wonder how you ever worked without it!

Tips from Legal Industry Experts on How to Effectively Manage Your Practice

How Do You Achieve Excellence in Your Professional Practice?

By Edward Poll, J.D., M.B.A., CMC

We are creatures of habit, and thus our habits define who we are. "Good habits are hard to develop but easy to live with. Bad habits are easy to develop but hard to live with," said one of the wealthiest men in America, Nido Qubein, speaking before an audience of consultants gathered at the Institute of Management Consultants conference in Nashville.

Qubein is also chairman of a bank, principle shareholder of Great Harvest Bread Company and has written 20 books. He listed 12 habits that will make you excellent as a professional, as well as bring you tons of business.

1. Every single day, call or write four clients or prospects. That's 20 people a week, 1,000 people a year. "I cannot tell you the power of this idea," he said. "Remember, if you are out of sight, you're out of mind."
2. Keep your desk clean. Treat every day as the day before a vacation. "Don't delay until tomorrow what you can do today."
3. Read one hour a day. "If you go to the bathroom five times a day, you've got time to read. He saves the morning paper for the evening. "I can wash down pretty much anything with a good glass of Merlot."
4. Ask yourself, "what did I do today to create new business?"
5. Pay yourself first. He's done this every day since he was 23 and was working 17 hours a day. Today he's 55 and this simple habit has created a fund that allows him to invest in other businesses.
6. Always work from the "is" and the "does" takes care of itself. What is your identity? How do you see yourself? Even when he was poor, he knew that poverty is a temporary status. "Wealth is a state of mind."
7. Don't work "slowly but surely," work slowly and cumulatively. It's the little things we do that amount to something worthwhile and add up to great relationships with clients.
8. Your success depends on the choices you make, not the circumstances you find yourself in. Nido said the greatest choice he's ever made was to become a transformational consultant, not a transactional consultant. The former not only solves the client's problem, but influences them in measurable and lasting ways. "It's the difference from having insight and having impact."

9. Seek brand insistence, not mere brand preference. Simple preference is not enough. "Pepsi is branded in my mind, but I don't drink it," he said. All you need is a dozen clients who insist on using you. You want your clients to say, "I need you in my life." You can't be just nice to have around or someone who has some information clients need at the moment.

10. Don't make the grave error of seeking fame and not fortune. If you want fame, you can buy it. "I'd rather have eight clients who insist on having me than 1,000 clients who have heard of me," he said.

11. Every day when you go to sleep, ask yourself, "what did I learn today?" You should try to learn something new every single day. The more you know, the more you will be able to apply it to your practice.

12. Build your reputation. "If someone were to ask your clients behind your back, what would they say about you? Would they say you're a good guy but when you're gone they'll hire someone else?" When we know what our clients think about us, we truly know something valuable.

Viewing Details of Previous Calls & Using Callback Reminders

by Lori Berenson

Viewing Details of Previous Calls

When initiating or receiving a phone call, you may find it useful to review previous phone calls with the same person or regarding the same file. With the Phone Call Details dialog box open, click the 'Show Calls' button under the 'Time' field to display: a) your phone calls with this contact, b) the related log with this person, c) your phone calls on this file, d) all calls on this file, or e) your phone calls on this date. The 'Show Calls' button then changes to a 'Hide Calls' button (as shown below).

Click here to show other call records → Show Calls

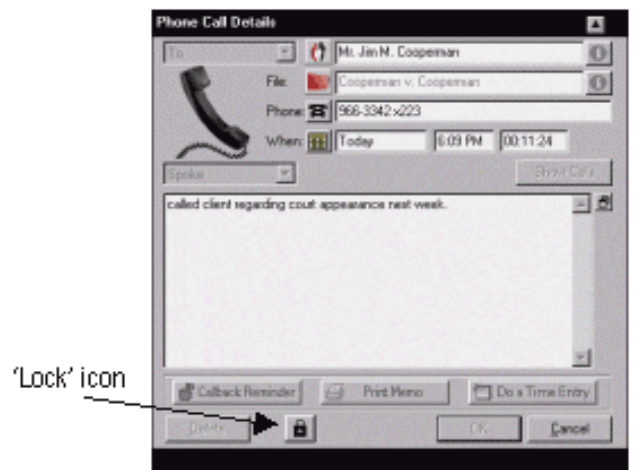

The log lists records of previous calls and messages, and shows basic information about each call or message. To view more details of a particular call or message, double-click on it from the 'Phone Calls' Brad. You may make any changes or just review the information. Click on OK to finalize the call record. Click on Cancel if you do not want to save the changes.

If you placed the call, then you can:

- edit the phone call details
- set up a Callback Reminder
- do a Time Entry
- print the call details

If another Team Member placed the call, most of the buttons on the window will be grayed out and there will be a 'Lock' icon at the bottom of the dialog box (as shown below). Then you are only able to view the call.

The 'Phone Calls' Brad heading allows you to select from the following list:

Brad Heading	Description
My Calls with this Person	Displays a list of all of your phone calls with this person
My Log with this Person	Displays a log of your phone calls and phone messages with this person (team environment only)
My Calls on this File	Displays a list of your calls with any contact associated with this file
All Calls on this File	Displays a log of all Team Members' file-related phone calls (team environment only)
My Calls on this Date	Displays a log of calls you have made on the date of the phone call

Callback Reminders

When you leave a message for someone to call you, do you always remember to place a follow-up call if your call has not been returned? If you put the return call out of your mind (as many people do), the Callback Reminder will be a tremendous help to you. If you are placing a phone call, and a) the line was busy, b) there was no answer, or c) you leave a voice mail message or a message with a live person, you can set up a Callback Reminder. A new To Do event is created - all you need to do is select the appropriate date to call the person back - either later that same day, the next day, or any time in the future.

When the  button appears on your To Do list, you have the following options:

- delete the To Do if the person has already returned your call and you have recorded the call
- if you have spoken to the person but haven't recorded the call, click on the  button, change to the appropriate date of the call, and log any notes about the call
- if you have not spoken to the person, click on the  button to initiate the new phone call.

FAQs - Frequently Asked Questions

Our Customer Service Team Provides Answers to Some Common Technical Questions

Why does the search seem to accept only one letter at a time when I type a File or Contact name while looking at the index?

Issue: The Quicksearch, that allows you to type the first few letters of a File or Contact name in order to immediately go to that part of the list, jumps around from letter to letter as you type them.

Cause: There is an automatic timeout for the typing that is set to 0.5 seconds. If you type slowly, you will go beyond this half-second limit and Amicus will think you are starting a new search.

Solution: You can increase the typing timeout value by doing the following:

1. Close your Amicus Attorney office
2. Go to the Start button and select 'Run'
3. Type in AA50.INI and select 'OK' (for version 4, type AA40.INI)
4. Look through the file for the Keyboard Timeout preference in the [User Preferences] section
5. Change the setting from 500 to 2000 for 2 seconds.
6. Close and save the changes to the file
7. Start Amicus Attorney and try it out

For more time, go back into the AA50.INI file and increase the Keyboard Timeout again. The setting is in thousandths of a second so for n seconds, just enter in (n x 1000) as the number of seconds. Usually you don't need to go any higher than 5000 or 5 seconds.

Versions: Amicus Attorney Version 4 and V.
